A Failure of political leadership

At your service, productively

AUSSI E VIEW OF FAILED SQX-ASX BID

Michael Sargent

Carl Skadian

Alan Chan Heng Loon

The strait times

For the Straits Times

A failure of political leadership

The significance of the Sarawak vote and state elections cannot be underestimated. Its impact will go beyond the state to affect national politics.

The election is a test of the strength of Barisan Nasional’s (BN) twin coalition politics. Sarawak and Sabah together account for 18 per cent of seats in the national parliament, in which the BN is facing the opposition for the first time.

The BN’s performance in the state elections will be crucial for sustaining the majority government in Putrajaya. A poor performance in Sarawak could impact the BN’s national agenda, especially on issues such as education and infrastructure.

The election is a test of the strength of Barisan Nasional’s (BN) twin coalition politics. Sarawak and Sabah together account for 18 per cent of seats in the national parliament, in which the BN is facing the opposition for the first time.

The BN’s performance in the state elections will be crucial for sustaining the majority government in Putrajaya. A poor performance in Sarawak could impact the BN’s national agenda, especially on issues such as education and infrastructure.

The BN’s performance in the state elections will be crucial for sustaining the majority government in Putrajaya. A poor performance in Sarawak could impact the BN’s national agenda, especially on issues such as education and infrastructure.

The BN’s performance in the state elections will be crucial for sustaining the majority government in Putrajay